Hello All Our local SWODS show was held at the Krohn Conservatory in Cincinnati's Eden Park. Eden Park is a great place for nature walking, seeing all sorts of different trees in full bloom, The Art Museum and a local venue for live acting called Playhouse in the Park. a large man made concrete pond where Cincinnati holds formal gatherings. There are a couple of overlooks where the Ohio River is shown quite a distance down in the valley. The Daffodil show was in a large tent outside the green house, where there is a butterfly show every summer. So, in order to tie into that theme of the Butterfly, SWODS offered a "Best Butterfly Daffodil" ribbon this year. Mary Lou Gripshover has named a beautiful hybrid of hers "Eden Park", so it's appropriate that this flower wins the Intermediate single stem and 3 stem Ribbons in a show that is held in Eden Park. It was a lot of fun, probably the best fun of any of the 7 shows I will attend this spring season. Photos below with description. The next show posting will be the Niles Michigan Show, then this coming weekend in Joe Hamms show. By then, I will probably pass out for a week or so. :-) Happy Viewing!
