This year the Seven States Daffodil Show committee decided to electronically send out their show schedule for you to look over. You will notice, those of you who have entered the show before, a new numbering system format along with a few new additions including a Photography Section.

If you have never attended a National Convention, you should plan a trip. This photo is from the National Flower Show in Sacramento, CA last March.

As you can see it's overwhelming in a good way to see so many different daffodils in one location.

This year's meeting is in Nashville in early April.
