

The list has been arranged in alphabetical order with the Division and Classification of each cultivar shown in the margin. The classification is in accordance with the Revised System recently adopted by the R.H.S. Colours are abbreviated as follows :

w—white or whitish; g—green; y—yellow; p—pink; o—orange; r—red.

For the purpose of description, the daffodil flower is divided into perianth, and corona. The perianth is described by the first letter following the number of the Division to which the cultivar belongs.

The corona is treated as having three zones : An eye zone, a mid-zone and an edge or rim. The description of the corona is separated from the description of the perianth by a hyphen and the letter then following the hyphen describes the corona colour starting with the eye zone. If however the corona is of a single colour, only a single letter of the colour code is used to describe it.

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS FOR DAFFODILS

To obtain best results, a sunny well drained plot of ground should be selected. Previous deep digging to aerate the soil is an advantage, but on no account should farm or stable manure be incorporated or used as a mulch. The use of inorganic fertilisers is not recommended, but a light dusting of bone meal before planting and during each successive winter will help bulb and flower production. The rate of application need not exceed 2 ozs. per square yard. Wood ashes or a sprinkling of sulphate of potash will help to produce intensity of colour.

The site should be made up some weeks before planting, which should be carried out in September. The bulbs should be covered with about twice their own depth of soil in average land, and rather less if the ground is heavy.

Smaller quantities of bulbs can be planted in blocks or groups in herbaceous borders, but cannot be expected to produce their best blooms if planted close to hedges, or shrubs whose roots rob the soil of its productive qualities. Nor can bulbs planted in dry, parched conditions be expected to increase well, or produce large flowers after the first year.

The daffodil requires a damp retentive soil during the period when it is making the bulb which will flower in the following season. Bulbs may be left down for several seasons without being lifted, and we have good clumps which have been down for six years or more, but we now lift all commercial stocks annually and select the largest bulbs for sale.

The large round bulb with a single nose, or a large offset will produce a finer flower than a mother bulb with several noses. After flowering seed pods may develop, and the flower heads must be removed or the development of the bulbs will be prejudiced.

Not all daffodils will produce their best flowers if grown in pots, but most white trumpets, or white and red flowers do well. On the other hand many yellow and red highly coloured flowers do not come well in pots, unless the temperature can be kept below 60°F after the buds emerge. The secret of successful pot cultivation is ample watering, good ventilation and a moist atmosphere being maintained by overhead spraying, or floor watering as the buds come into flower.

We do not recommend forcing daffodils in pots, and the best practice is to plunge the pots in cool ground (under 48°F), for eight weeks at least, and to bring the pots into the greenhouse or house using no heat except to keep away frost. Bring the pots into room temperature only when flower buds are showing. Copious watering is essential once the buds are coming clear of the bulbs, and on no account should the pots be allowed to get dry.

The best way to select varieties is to see them growing and flowering. We will be glad to permit visitors to see the bulbs in flower during this Spring on Wednesday or Saturday afternoons or on other days by arrangement.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

We have oversold our stocks in the last two years and early ordering is recommended where the list shows that stocks are small.

During this period we have increased the range of seedlings which we consider have merit for exhibition or garden decoration. Breeding policy for many years has been to select for substance, colour and freedom of flowering in conjunction with the production of good hard bulbs and a good rate of bulb increase. To test the performance of new hybrids under different growing conditions we have sent out in recent years many cultivars under seedling numbers for trial, and the reports on the performance of these bulbs have led to many being named for exhibition or garden display.

SPECIAL OFFERS. Postage free by air mail to U.S.A. and Canada.

No. 1 — Six different recently named or established show varieties for exhibition in at least 3 Divisions. Catalogue value over $50.00.

$30 post free by air to U.S.A. or Canada.

No. 2 — About 10 (or 3½ lbs. net weight) bulbs for exhibition in at least six classes, made up exclusively of named varieties which have been prize-winners. Catalogue value at least $75.00.

$50.00 post free by air to U.S.A. or Canada.

£20.00 post free to U.K. or Eire.

No. 3 — A SPECIAL PARCEL of ten selected numbered seedlings made up exclusively of cultivars which have either gained an exhibition award individually or as a member of a group, or have been provisionally selected by us for naming, subject to favourable reports from growers.

$30.00 post free by air to U.S.A. or Canada.

£10.00 post free to U.K. or Eire.

We will also make up a parcel to include any exhibition varieties specially wanted, if available, to a specified cost: £5 upwards for a U.K. order or U.S. $30 upwards for an order from the U.S.A. or Canada, plus the actual cost of air or surface mail as required.

STERLING - U.S. DOLLAR EXCHANGE RATE

U.S. and Canadian orders: Prices have been converted at the arbitrary rate of $2.00=£1, and additional bulbs will be sent to make good any difference between this rate, and the actual rate when an order is received.

Postage charges are likely to be increased again in the near future, and we suggest that for air mail delivery U.S. $10 should be added for orders of 10-20 bulbs and U.S. $20 for 20-50 bulbs. For surface parcel mail add U.S. $6 for up to 30 bulbs, U.S. $10 for 50 bulbs. We shall also add free bulbs to make good any such payments for air or surface mail postage. Parcels by surface mail will be posted before 1st September, if bulbs are fully dried out.

NO VALUE ADDED TAX is added to orders from the United Kingdom or overseas.
