HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

This may seem a strange way to start the introduction to our main catalogue, but the fact is that with the publication of this 1975 edition Broadleigh Gardens is exactly ten years old. I hope that all my customers will also wish the nursery many happy returns of the day, as there is no doubt in my mind that more and more gardeners have found that we have over the years provided a useful service. This is reinforced, I think, by the fact that we have grown over this time by just over 496 per cent as measured by the volume of orders.

You will forgive me, I hope, if I spend a moment looking backwards. During the ten years the firm has seen two owners, which has meant a rather different approach to the problems. It was in 1964 that Walter Stagg bought a business that dealt exclusively in Daffodils, especially the miniatures, from a very well-known hybridiser and grower, Alec Gray. Mr Gray bred such beautiful varieties as Tete-a-tete and Thoughtful, to name but two. Mr Stagg immediately realised that this was a time of large-scale house building and reduced areas for gardening and that there were many other bulbs that fitted into the image of small plants for small gardens. At one time the nursery even grew and sold a few shrubs, but it became apparent that this was uneconomic because of the cost of packing and postage.

This year, unfortunately, sees the introduction of the biggest single increase in rates of postage ever known in the British Isles. By the time this catalogue is published parcel post will have increased by two-thirds and there is naturally such antagonism towards increasing the postage and packing charge that we have decided, after much heart searching, to make all our bulbs postage paid. We will, however, continue to send bulbs out in separate parcels so that they may be planted at the correct time of year. In order to do this we have unfortunately had to increase the minimum value of an order to £3, but are for the first time offering discounts for quantity (see Terms of Business on page 32). Some of our prices have had perforce to be increased but it is surprising how many we have been able to keep constant or, even more remarkably in these days of inflation and increased costs, to reduce.

Since I took over the nursery I have been inveigled into answering some two thousand letters a year. This is a service which I feel is essential to keep the business personal, but I am afraid that I must now insist on a stamped addressed envelope being included with any query not accompanied by or concerning an order. I hope the reason for this is obvious, i.e. that it is to everybody's advantage to keep costs down. However, I hope that it will not stop my correspondence with customers which I regard as a necessary, if old-fashioned, part of the business. It is essential to be in as close contact as possible with the people with whom one does business and to this end we have increased the number of horticultural shows at which we put up exhibits and the number of lectures I give in a year, which are loosely headed 'Broadleigh (!) speaking'.

Finally, I wish all my customers as good a gardening decade in the future as I myself have had in the past and also I pray, as I am sure you do, for a good old-fashioned season when plants flower at the appointed times!

NARCISSI (DAFFODILS)

A daffodil is probably one of the easiest and least demanding of plants to grow. Normally when a bulb is planted it will come up and flower, provided that an unbalanced fertilizer is not put on. Fertilizers containing an excess of nitrogen should be avoided, as should manure. However, the species do need more understanding and care and must be treated with the respect accorded to most plants in the garden. If they are happy they will become established and multiply.

The varieties we offer vary from 3" to 18" in height. Only a few are species and are clearly marked as such. The remainder are hybrids, being crosses between small species and larger-flowered varieties and, as normally happens, the hybrids have more vigour and adaptability. The hybrid daffodils which we list will grow almost anywhere, but this only applies to a very few of the species, many of which are alpiners and need treatment, especially drainage, suitable for these subjects. Species daffodils may be seen all over the high ground in Spain and Portugal, where N. asturiensis, bulbocodium, rupicola and triandrus are found growing through the melting snow like Crocus in the Alps.

The jonquils however seem to like places where the soil is often heavy and where they get a thorough baking in summer. Few of the tazetta group are hardy in this country and then only in unusually warm spots — in other words their growth is restricted to south of a line from the Severn to the Wash. However, together with the North African species, they will grow well if brought in to a cold house by the middle of November but not forced.

The bulbocodiums grow almost all over the Iberian peninsula in varying conditions from marshland to dry road verges. When grown in this country it is found that those which increase by seed flower well but those whose bulbs split are likely to be flowerless after a few years. These trends can only be found out by experience as they seem to vary from garden to garden. Many of the triandrus family, all of which need good drainage, flower in partial shade, often on northern slopes.

Many people like to grow daffodils in grass. However it should be remembered for this form of naturalising that the bulbs should be planted 6" deep — in other words rather deeper than usual — and the grass should not be mown until after the leaves have died down. Many of the hybrids we list are suitable for this purpose, especially February Silver, Peeping Tom, February Gold, Beryl and the poeticus varieties. Also of course the wild daffodil of Northern Europe, now called pseudo narcissus. Many of the smaller hybrids are better grown in the border and rock garden where their daintiness can be appreciated to the full.

NEW INTRODUCTION
SKELMERSDALE GOLD

In February 1973 we showed this variety for the first time at the Annual General Meeting of the Royal Horticultural Society. Everyone who saw it was extremely taken with this perfectly shaped trumpet daffodil, with pale gold erect flowers. We could not, however, think of a suitable name for the little poppet, so a competition was organized jointly by Garden News and ourselves. This was finally won by Mrs M. Brush of Tamworth, Staffs., and we are most grateful both to her and Garden News.

YELLOW GEM. A very showy large jonquil hybrid of a delicate lemon colour.	12"	Early April 10	ea. 11	1.00
YELLOW TRESAMBLE. A lovely triandrus with a mass of pale yellow flowers. Very vigorous.	16"	Late Mar. 10	ea. 11	1.00

MIXED NARCISSI

After lifting, we find that a large number of bulbs have been missed. The cost of growing them on for a year and then digging them up individually to replace them with their own varieties is too costly a business. Therefore, we are making a special offer of bulbs, as lifted, which will contain a broad range of varieties, some of which may be quite valuable.
