

Broughshane, "The Garden Village of Ulster", is located three miles east of the town of Ballymena in County Antrim. It is situated at the foothills of Slemish Mountain where St. Patrick tended his sheep and is a gateway to the scenic Glens of Antrim and the spectacular North Antrim Coast, with the world heritage site of The Giant's Causeway.

The village is known by communities all over the world for its successes in the competitive floral area, having won: Ulster in Bloom, Britain in Bloom, The European Entente Florale and Nations in Bloom.

Kate and Robin Reade attended the inaugural meeting of Broughshane Village Improvement Committee in 1987 and together we have seen the village transformed by volunteers and it attracts thousands of tourists during the summer months. We are delighted to be involved with Robin and Kate Reade in continuing to develop and promote Carncairn Daffodils throughout the world and the spring blooms naturally compliment our summer floral displays.

We look forward to meeting many of the Reade's friends and customers during the years that lie ahead.
