NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS IN U.S.A.

Customers in the U.S.A. who wish to import Narcissus bulbs from me must first apply for a permit to do so to the:—

U.S. Department of Agriculture,
Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, (Inspection House), Washington, D.C.,

giving my name and address together with the number of bulbs you wish to import from me or a slightly larger number, as I generally include a few gratis bulbs with each order. When sending your order please state the total number of bulbs you have applied to import, as I can only send the exact number as any excess would be refused by the U.S. Authorities. Your Department of Agriculture will forward a special green and yellow mailing tag to you together with your permit. Please post this tag to me immediately you receive same so that I may attach it to your parcel. This tag will bear your permit number and unless attached to your parcel before leaving here the U.S.A. Customs would refuse the parcel. You can obtain the permit without any difficulty as bulbs are regularly exported from Northern Ireland to the U.S.A. I have made all the necessary arrangements here to have the proper Health Certificates enclosed in the parcel. My stocks are regularly inspected by the officials of the Northern Ireland Ministry of Agriculture, and I am always congratulated on the health and vigour of my stocks. I can guarantee bulbs of the very highest quality, and I should particularly like to mention that I have never had the dread eelworm disease in my stocks. My bulbs are grown under the best possible conditions and I had many letters from customers in the U.S.A. expressing satisfaction with their bulbs last season.

CUSTOMS CLEARANCE.

In the case of orders of more than 100 dollars in value kindly state where it is most convenient for you to clear the parcel through the Customs. It is necessary for me to state this on the Consular Invoice in order to avoid delay.

Cultural Notes

In order to obtain the finest flowers for exhibition a sunny, well-drained plot of ground which is sheltered from the prevailing winds at flowering time should be selected. Ground which has been manured for a previous crop is best, and if it can be thrown up in ridges during the winter and exposed to the weather until planting time it should be in almost ideal condition for planting. Fresh animal manure should not be added prior to planting, as the bulbs may be damaged. If the soil appears to be on the poor side a light dusting of bone meal at the rate of 3 ozs. per square yard may be given with advantage.

The beds should be made up a few weeks prior to planting in order to give the soil time to settle. I plant in beds $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet wide with a path $1\frac{1}{2}$ feet wide between each. The rows across the beds are spaced about ten to twelve inches apart with 6 to 8 bulbs in each row, according to the size and vigour of the variety being planted. Depth of planting is very important; if they are planted too near the surface, the bulbs of many varieties are inclined to split up, giving only small flowers as a result. I always place a small handful of sharp sand below each bulb when planting to ensure good drainage.

If the flowers are being grown for exhibition, it will be necessary to protect them against adverse weather. I use hop screening six feet high as a wind break around my beds of choice varieties. It should be put in position as soon as the flowers begin to open and removed again as soon as the flowers fade. Too much shelter is not advisable as it tends to weaken the plants. It is often advisable to cover small lots of exhibition flowers with overhead covers placed firmly in position about a foot or 15 inches above the blooms. The flowers need to be very carefully watched, as the covers tend to draw the stems upwards and the blooms rub against the covers with disastrous results. White calico covers are best for white, bicolor and self-yellow varieties. Many red-cupped varieties will burn if exposed to the sun, and I find covers made from two thicknesses of hessian sacking are required to protect them. These dark covers cannot, of course remain long in position without damaging the flowers and plants, but they are useful if carefully used. It is remarkable how many varieties can be kept in condition for quite a long time if covered carefully. If the flowers have to be taken some distance to a show they should be cut and placed in water at least 24 hours before travelling. Light wooden boxes lined with paper are best for carrying the flowers. If properly packed with each row of flowers resting on a small roll of tissue paper and the petals overlapping they will travel perfectly. The stems should be secured to the bottom of the box with tape and drawing pins after every third row has been placed in position.

As soon as the hall is reached the flowers should be put in water after cutting off about half-an-inch from the bottom of each stem, and allowed as long as possible to recover from the journey before selecting the flowers for exhibition. It is advisable to bring a few extra blooms of each variety in case any happen to be damaged in transit or slightly past their best. The flowers are usually staged with three flowers of one variety in a vase arranged with a few clean Daffodil leaves and firmed into position with moss.

Daffodils in Pots

Daffodils are splendid pot plants for the cold or slightly heated greenhouse. It is not advisable to attempt to force the flowers, as many which come in splendid form in a cool greenhouse will not respond to forcing conditions. The bulbs should be potted in August or early September, using good loamy soil and adding sufficient sand and peat to keep the mixture open. A light dusting of bone meal is also useful. Pot firmly in well crocked pots, just covering the noses of the bulbs with soil. After potting, plunge the pots in the soil in a sheltered spot in the open garden putting slates under the pots to prevent worms entering the drainage holes, filling in between and covering the pots with about two inches of soil. It is advisable to cover the tops of the pots with a little moss before plunging, as this prevents the soil of the plunging bed getting mixed with that in the pots. The pots can be brought into the greenhouse early in the New Year. The main point is to give plenty of ventilation and grow the plants cool. Never allow the pots to dry out for want of water.

The selection of suitable varieties is very important. Amongst yellow trumpets, Principal, Moongold, Mellow, Cromarty and Stronghold are excellent. Sundance, which is a comparatively new variety, is a splendid pot plant, coming early and is an exceptionally good laster. Havelock is consistently good and comes early. The newer Golden Torch, when it becomes more plentiful will be ideal coming in perfect form. It will probably force easily. The bicolors, Polindra, Rathkenny, Effective and the new early variety Foresight, are very fine.

Many of the newer whites come in magnificent form when grown indoors. Slemish, Truth, Carnlough and Dunlewey are first class. Parkmore is a magnificent pot plant, coming early and in perfect form. Cantatrice is one of the most perfect flowers in cultivation and comes in simply magnificent form indoors. The giant whites Broughshane and Kanchenjunga also come beautifully and seem to last an amazing time, in good condition. Ardclinis and Dunluce should also be tried.

Many of the modern "pinks" come beautifully indoors. I have had splendid flowers from Suda, Dunloy, Lisbreen, Wild Rose and Charis. Rose of Tralee, which is one of the best quality pinks is also very fine in pots. It is, however, a very late flowering variety and cannot be forced.

Many varieties, which were formerly classified as Small-crowned Leedsii, such as Grey Lady, Misty Moon and Angeline, are very attractive, but it is essential that the flowers be protected from bright sunshine, as the cups are liable to be burned. The new Stardust is a very fine pure white flower and Chinese White is an absolutely first-class Show flower, but requires to be grown slowly.

Red cup varieties are rather more difficult to grow successfully indoors. I have had splendid blooms of Indian Summer, Forest Fire, Dunkeld, Rouge and King of Hearts. Rustom Pasha is worthy of special mention, as in addition to being a first-class pot plant, it has the added merit of being absolutely sunproof. The white petalled varieties Mahmoud and White Damson are very fine. I should particularly like to recommend Rubra, which is one of the finest red and white flowers for pots, coming in wonderful form with beautiful silken, smooth white petals and red cup. It seems to respond to gentle forcing quite well.

Principal Changes Involved

DIVISION I.

Trumpet Narcissi

The Trumpets remain as before with the exception that the White Trumpets are now classified as Division 1c and the Bicolors as Division 1b.

DIVISION II.

Large-cupped Narcissi
Of Garden Origin.

This includes Division II or Incomparabilis of the old classification together with a new sub-section 2c, for white varieties, such as were formerly classified as Giant Leedsii Division 4a. However Leedsii varieties with rimmed crowns, such as Brunswick, together with pink-cupped flowers, such as Rose of Tralee, will be classified as Division 2b, as Division 2c is confined entirely to pure white varieties, such as Slemish and Truth.

DIVISION III.
Small-cupped Narcissi
Of Garden Origin.

This division will supersede the old Barrii Division III, with the addition of the small-crowned Leedsii varieties from Division 4b. Pure white varieties, such as Silver Salver have been accommodated by the addition of a new Class 3c. Rimmed small-crowned Leedsii varieties such as Grey Lady, however, will now be classified 3b.

DIVISION IV.
Doubles
Of Garden Origin.

The double varieties have now been classified as Division 4. This fills the gap left by the abolition of the Leedsii Division.

The dividing line between Divisions II and III is adjusted so that the latter includes a flower in which the cup or corona is one-third the length of the perianth segments.

Divisions I, II and III are each provided with a fourth Sub-Division, lettered (d), for any colour combination, such as "reversed colours," not falling into Sub-Divisions (a), (b) or (c).

Classification of Daffodils to which the variety belongs is given followed by a number to indicate the approximate time of flowering, No. 1 being the earliest and No. 6 the latest. This is followed by the name of the raiser in brackets.
