GIFTS

Bulbs make excellent gifts for birthday and anniversary presents. Advice sent to the recipient when you place your order.

CULTURAL NOTES

Bulbs should be planted not later than the end of March because their rate of increase and the quality and size of the blooms may be affected by late planting. Daffodils can be grown successfully in any sunny, well prepared, deeply worked garden soil but GOOD DRAINAGE IS ESSENTIAL.

To avoid risk of damage from exposure the beds should be allowed to settle before planting. Plant the bulbs to a depth equal to their height. A position sheltered from strong or drying winds is desirable. It is an advantage to cultivate the beds during the growing season. Fresh natural manures should never be used. Whilst opinion on types of manure vary, it is generally agreed that potash is necessary. This should be applied early in the growing season. Use snail bait when the flower buds appear.

Always let the leaves die down naturally before lifting.

Open parcels on receipt; store the bulbs in a cool, dry and airy place until planting time.

Never divide bulbs unless the offsets come away freely and without tearing the base plate.

COST

Cost is not necessarily an indication of quality of the bloom as an exhibition variety. In many cases availability is the determining factor.

KEYS

The small letters in front of a name of each variety indicate its recommended use; e.g., d = decorative, e = exhibition, g = garden, p = growing in pots or pans, r = growing in the rock garden.

The figure after the name of a variety indicates the relative time of flowering; '0' the earliest, 6 the latest.

DESCRIPTIONS

Most people now prefer to purchase varieties that have appealed to them at shows or in a friend's garden rather than accept the written descriptions which often lead to bitter disappointment.

It is therefore NOT my intention to describe my stock other than some of my own introductions and other outstanding varieties recently acquired. Most of these are still in short supply, hence bulbs will be sold on a "first come first served" basis.

As in previous years, descriptions of the varieties shown in the GENERAL list will be provided upon request.
