Hello Midwest ADS members.
Just a quick note and plead for updates.

The Central Ohio Daffodil Society show has been cancelled due to the Franklin Park Conservatory not allowing any plant societies to gather in their usual rooms on the lower level.

This has been a real effort over the past week or so. So many rumors, and the venue couldn't be reached for confirmation and members questioning while others couldn't be reached. Nancy Gill finally reached the right person at the conservatory after almost an hour of waiting and being transferred and on hold. This was a multiple effort job and I REALLY appreciate her and Naomi who made the effort days before. Holy moly!!

Also, I've not received an update from any society other than IDS and Niles MI.

We need to be sure that all members are up to date so that plans can be made for show attendance.

Please advise as soon as you're able.

Even with most of the upper midrange of the country experiencing another blast of arctic air, we have started noticing little green noses poking through in the most protected parts of our property and we are later than most in the Cincinnati area being so far northwest.

appreciate all of you.
Tom
