

DAVID JACKSON TROPHY

In 1978, Lindsay Dettman, of Australia, was a speaker at the annual convention. Col. Dettman returned his $65 registration fee from the Columbus Convention and asked that an award be offered at National shows in honor of Alister Clark. (Originally called the Australian Award, the name was changed in the fall of 2015 to The David Jackson Trophy.) The Board accepted his offer with thanks, and agreed that the award would go to a collection of five cultivars bred in Australia. The original award, a Revere bowl, has been retired and replaced with a carved wooden bowl which was presented to the ADS by David Jackson in 1998.

Alister Clark was a prominent Australian hybridizer in the first half of the 20th century, as was Col. Dettman. David Jackson is the third generation of his family to breed daffodils in Australia.

CARNCAIRN AWARD

In 1976, the Board of The American Daffodil Society accepted the offer of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Reade, of Carncairn Daffodils, of an heirloom silver cup to be offered at the convention show for a collection of five standard daffodils bred in Ireland.

Kate Reade is a prominent raiser of daffodils in Northern Ireland, and winner of the ADS Gold Medal in 1992.

DUTCH AWARD

The Dutch Trophy was given to the ADS in 2004 as they celebrated their 50th anniversary. Jan Pennings, the representative of the Royal Dutch Growers Association (KAVB), presented a silver tray to Kathy Welsh, the Convention Chair, and asked her to set the criteria for winning the trophy. In addition to the tray, which is a perpetual trophy, a gold pin was awarded to the first winner of the class at the 2004

Convention. Kathy and six other members of the Washington Daffodil Society decided the trophy should be awarded to the best collection of five standard cultivars, each from one of the first five decades of the ADS. The criteria have since been modified to say that the cultivars may come from any five different decades.

GRANT AND AMY MITSCH TROPHY

In 1978, the Board of Directors approved a distinguished award for the best three-stem exhibit of an unnamed seedling standard daffodil shown by the raiser in the National show. This award is distinguished by honoring America's greatest daffodil hybridizer. Mr. Mitsch believed that a maiden bloom of a seedling might not show the true worth of the seedling. An exhibit of three stems would give more convincing evidence of what the cultivar has done over a period of several years. Dr. and Mrs. Tom Throckmorton asked for the privilege of giving the award, which Mrs. Marie Bozievich created. She chose the silver chalice design because of the devout approach to life of both Grant and Amy Mitsch.

JOHN AND BETTY LARUS TROPHY

The Board of Directors, in 1979, accepted the offer of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anthony of an award honoring John and Betty Larus. The award is for three stems of a miniature seedling candidate shown by its raiser in the National Show. The silver trophy was crafted by Marie Bozievich, and she chose the design to express the daintiness and grace of miniature daffodils.

Mr. Larus was president of the ADS and a long-time chairman of the Miniatures Committee.

WILLIAM G. PANNILL CUP

In 1987, the Board approved a class for a collection of twelve stems, one bloom each, raised by the exhibitor, to be known as the ADS Challenge Cup. In the spring of 2015, the cup was re-named the William G. Pannill Cup. To allow participation from growers in all locations, blooms may be grown in any manner deemed appropriate to the exhibitor. The exhibitor must be the originator of each cultivar, but need not be the grower. An anonymous donor presented the ADS a piece of antique silver for this award.

MURRAY EVANS TROPHY

In 1987, the Board approved a class for a collection of six stems, one bloom each, raised by the exhibitor. To allow participation from growers in all locations, blooms may be grown in any manner deemed appropriate to the exhibitor. The exhibitor must be the originator of each cultivar, but need not be the grower. Delia Bankhead presented the ADS an S. Kirk and Sons, late 19th century, sterling cup in honor of Murray Evans.

Murray Evans was a well-known daffodil hybridizer and avid fisherman. When Murray registered a daffodil as white, it had to be white: if it wasn't as white as -Dallas, it wasn't white enough for Murray.

HELEN K. LINK MEDAL

The Goethe Link Award was given in 1987 by Helen Link of Indiana in memory of her husband. In the fall of 2016 the medal was re-named the Helen K. Link Medal. The Medal is for a group of three different cultivars, one stem each, exhibited by the hybridizer. Helen was a hybridizer, and a president of the ADS. She received the ADS Silver Medal in 1963 and the ADS Gold Medal in 1995.

GOLD MEDAL FOR INNOVATION

This Innovation Gold Medal, presented to the ADS on the occasion of its 50th anniversary in 2004 by Brian and Betty Duncan, is to be awarded for the most innovative new daffodil exhibited at the ADS National Show. The winning variety should demonstrate significant novelty, advance or break-through qualities which could be expected to influence future development of the genus for commercial or exhibition purposes.

The Gold Medal will be awarded to the hybridiser and raiser (or, if deceased to the principal stockholder or exhibitor) of the winning daffodil provided it fulfills the following conditions:

- 1) It must be exhibited at an ADS National Show and Convention, either in competitive classes or in Bulb Nursery or private displays.
- 2) It must be new in that its name has not been registered more than 5 years previously.
- 3) If an unregistered seedling is chosen for the award the breeder/stockholder must undertake to register it as a cultivar with The Royal Horticultural Society as soon as possible after the judges announce their decision. Ideally, a name would be chosen before the end of the Convention, perhaps from a suggestions box placed in front of the Award winning bloom on the honours table.

OLIVE W. LEE AWARD

The Olive W. Lee memorial bowl is a perpetual trophy originally offered by George S. Lee, Jr., at various local daffodil shows in memory of his late wife. After George Lee's death in 1978, the ADS accepted the bowl as a trophy to be awarded at the national show beginning in 1981 for the best standard daffodil in divisions 5 through 8. George Lee was a founding member of the ADS. He was ADS president from 1957 to 1960 and ADS executive director from 1966 until his death. The ADS recognized his service to the Society by awarding him its Silver Medal in 1964.

LITTLE ENGLAND - LARRY MAINS TROPHY

At the 1971 Fall Board Meeting, the Board of Directors accepted the gift of a Cartier silver tray from Mrs. Theodore Pratt, of Little England Daffodil Farm in Virginia, in memory of Larry P. Mains. The Award is for a collection of three stems each of nine cultivars of standard daffodils from Division 3.

Larry Mains served as chairman of the Photography Committee for many years, and his slides are still in the ADS Slide Archives. Although he did not enter flowers in competition, he often lent a hand at local shows, and staged educational exhibits. His beautiful displays, neatly labeled, of the finest varieties, must have inspired many to try newer and better daffodils. His photographic records continue to educate us.

HARRY I. TUGGLE, JR. AWARD

In 1970, the ADS Board accepted a silver Chippendale tray from Mrs. Theodore Pratt, proprietor of Little England Daffodil Farm in Virginia, in memory of Harry I. Tuggle, Jr. The trophy was offered for the first time in 1971 for a collection of twelve standard cultivars, three stems each, from at least three RHS divisions. Beginning in 2001, a Gold Medal was also awarded to the first-time winner of this class at the National Show, and a Bronze Medal to the winners at Regional Shows.

Harry Tuggle was one of the founders of the ADS. He planted his first daffodils at age 12. Years before entering the University of Virginia he was corresponding with Guy L. Wilson and Lionel Richardson in Ireland, buying bulbs from them, and reading publications on daffodil culture and breeding. While still in his teen years, Harry exhibited and won awards in the Garden Club of Virginia daffodil shows.

From 1959 until 1969 Harry collected and tabulated the findings and opinions of other growers in the form of an annual symposium. This, and his annual Accent on Novelties, was published in The Daffodil Journal, and read by many novice daffodil growers.

He was the recipient of the ADS Silver Medal in 1968, and though he had stopped exhibiting years earlier, he was the first winner of the Carey Quinn Gold Medal in 1969 shortly before his untimely death at age 39 of heart failure.

JOHN VAN BECK MEDAL

In 2001, the ADS accepted the offer of the Florida Daffodil Society to fund a bronze medal in honor of John Van Beck to be given at the ADS National Daffodil Show for the best pre-1940 cultivar in the Historic Section.

John rescued many daffodils from abandoned home sites in the South and had an interest in historic daffodils.

THROCKMORTON MEDAL

The Throckmorton Medal is awarded to a collection of fifteen cultivars and/or species, from fifteen different RHS classifications, all identified and color coded, the only ADS award for which color coding is absolutely mandatory everywhere. It is appropriately named for Dr. Tom Throckmorton, inventor of the Data Bank, and was designed by Marie Bozievich. The first medal was awarded in 1988, but given retroactively, to the winner in 1987.
