

SOME PRACTICAL HINTS ON GROWING DAFFODILS

Outdoor—Site

Daffodil bulbs will grow and flower in any well-drained garden soil, but they like best a well-worked and deep loam which may be from quite a light character to a stiff clay. Be sure of good drainage.

The position should be open to a fair amount of sun, yet sheltered from the full force of prevailing winds.

If the shelter is provided by trees, the bulb beds must be kept away from the roots, and the site should not be totally enclosed by permanent shelters. It may be necessary to provide additional shelter at certain points, and these are best afforded by temporary fences such as manuka, bales of straw, and so on, which should be removed at the end of the flowering period.

Manures—

Apply a good dressing of fine bone dust with which a small quantity of Basic Slag and Sulphate of Potash has been mixed. This mixture should be applied at the rate of 3oz. per square yard at planting time, or, if preferred, as a top dressing, when the foliage shows through the ground.

Dressings of burnt wood ash are very useful provided that the ash has not been washed by rain, as this would cause the loss of the Potash.

Planting—

All Daffodil bulbs are best planted not later than March, if possible, so that they have a long period before them in which to secure a good root system. The depth of planting depends on the size of the bulbs and the mechanical texture of the soil, the larger the bulb the deeper it should be planted and allowances should be made for heavy soil in which bulbs should not be planted too deeply. It is a safe and general guide to cover the neck of the bulb with three inches of soil.

Surface soil cultivation should commence as soon as the first leaves appear, and continue throughout the season.

DAFFODIL ENTHUSIASTS should join the

NATIONAL DAFFODIL SOCIETY of NEW ZEALAND (Inc.)

We have a very wide range of this new type of Daffodil and we have also imported a large selection of seedlings and mixed which will be offered for sale when fully acclimatised. Our name list of both Collar and Split types is over 30 different flowers with more now on the way from Europe.

This list represents less than half of our named stock, so if there is a name cultivar you want and it is not listed, write and ask if we have it.
