TERMS

ALL BULBS are offered subject to being unsold on receipt of order.

ORDERS should be sent as early as possible. Many of the varieties offered are the most recently raised and imported at great expense. Stocks of these are necessarily limited and cannot be replaced. Orders will be executed in strict rotation as received.

REMITTANCES—A remittance in full, or satisfactory references, should accompany all orders from unknown customers.

AT OUR DISCRETION a charge of 7½% for cost may be imposed on accounts overdue three months or more. Your placing an order signifies acceptance.

CONDITIONS OF SALE—The descriptions given are those furnished by the raisers—in most cases much abbreviated. We have tried to be quite fair in omitting superlatives where these are not considered to be justified. Nowhere could greater care be taken in keeping stocks free from pests, etc. All varieties are guaranteed true to name, but as we have no control over the bulbs after they leave our hands we cannot accept any responsibility for results given.

EXCEPT where stated otherwise, prices quoted are "each".

CUSTOMERS are respectfully reminded that the descriptions given for different varieties refer to the flower when it is fully developed and well grown. For instance, almost all varieties which are described as pure white will open with varying shades of cream or lemon colouring which, if left on the plant to mature, soon fades to pure white. Likewise, some of the pink-toned varieties will be lemon coloured on opening, but this soon changes to a shade of pink, according to the variety and the season; in some seasons when dull, wet weather prevails the shade may be less pronounced. Some of the rich orange varieties open with a pale orange cup which intensifies in sunlight—in other cases, shade is necessary.

GOOD deep cultivation and regular working of the soil is necessary in producing the very best results—in just the same way as a crop of vegetables responds to good cultivation. Our numerous successes at Provincial and National Shows over the years is sufficient guarantee that the bulbs are well grown and the best procurable.

POSTAGE is extra in all cases and should be added.

We sometimes hear the comment: "It is a pity the Daffodils pass so quickly".

With more than 40 years' experience, we can say frankly that a short flowering period is due solely to planting the wrong class of bulb.

In years gone by the varieties were very few compared with today and it was the usual thing for garden folk to have considerable numbers of one or two types of old-fashioned Daffodils in their borders where they remained undisturbed for years. Being all the same, it stands to reason that all would flower together, make a display for a week or two and go past just as quickly.

At some time when the garden was being overhauled these over-crowded bulbs were dug up by the bucketful and the surplus passed over to friends who, of course, would experience the same short flowering period and it gradually became common "knowledge" that Daffodils had a short flowering season.

Thanks to the painstaking efforts of modern hybridists—and to the enthusiasm shown by specialists who have, regardless of expense, continued to import the cream of the best British and other overseas new creations, a radical change has been brought about in both the quality of the flowers and the length of the flowering season. It is now usual for us to have Daffodils flowering for 10 weeks or more in the spring—and it must be agreed that few other flowers have such a lengthy flowering period. In this district it is usual for the early varieties to open in the third week of August and, as later varieties open, to have flowers till well into October. This year the last of our blooms were cut on 8th November—a full 12 weeks after the first bunches were cut. This must surely be an eye-opener to those who have regarded the Daffodil season as a splash of colour for a week or two.

To assist those who would like to enjoy a lengthy flowering season, we place long experience at their disposal in offering three collections to cover the range of early, mid-season and late varieties.

No. 1 COLLECTION will commence flowering in August and continue till mid September.

It contains 30 varieties all described in the Catalogue and priced at $10.00 for $8.00.

No. 2 COLLECTION will commence flowering in mid September and continue till the first week in October.

It contains 30 varieties all described in the Catalogue and priced at $10.00 for $8.00.

No. 3 COLLECTION will commence to flower in the first week in October and continue till around Labour Day—that is the third week in October.

It contains 30 varieties all described in the Catalogue and priced at $10.00 for $8.00.

This will ensure you having flowers over a very long period in the spring.

The flowering periods given for the foregoing collections applies to the seasons in Southland. Growers in the earlier districts, particularly in the North Island, should make due allowance for the difference in seasons. Although the flowering period will be substantially as long as here, the dates mentioned will have to be moved ahead, probably up to two weeks.

The Price of any one Collection is $8.00, plus postage, but be sure to make it clear whether it is No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 which is required.

GARDEN COLLECTION OF DAFFODILS

Many people in laying out a new garden quite wisely wish to avoid putting the old-fashioned common Daffodil in the ground. Although these would increase in numbers, their flowering period would be brief, they would have nothing to be proud of and would soon be flinging them out.

At the same time they are not necessarily "show-minded" and desire a collection of good Bulbs with robust habit which they can take a pride in showing to their friends. It is these people we cater for in our GARDEN COLLECTION. The varieties selected have been chosen for their robust constitution and general bright display rather than for the finer points of an exhibition flower. All the divisions in the Catalogue are represented (although the majority of the flowers are the popular red-cupped varieties and comprising early, mid-season and later varieties).

MIXED DAFFODILS

We do not grow any varieties in mixture, but to meet the wishes of customers desiring a cheaper assortment for planting in drives, etc., we make up a mixture from varieties the stock of which is in excess of requirements. Every bulb in this mixture is listed in this catalogue and practically all of them are valued at 25c to 35c each. You are not being offered obsolete or inferior sorts.

These are great value at $6.00 per 100, 85c per Dozen. (Postage extra).
