Crocus sativus - The legendary fall-blooming Saffron Crocus

Crocus sativus - Saffron Crocus

This is the legendary flower from which Saffron was made — worth its weight in gold in the Minoan culture several thousand years before Christ, and again in the Middle Ages when the crusaders introduced it to England. Today, this lovely violet-blue, fall blooming Crocus provides needed garden color at a time of year when little blooms, and serves as a conversation piece in your garden. From the orange stigmas hang red, thread-like segments which are the source of saffron, long used as a culinary herb, medicine and dyestuff. Once widely grown and of tremendous commercial importance, it is today a rare and attractive addition to any garden. Zones 5-9. Nature dictates that we cease shipment by September 15th.

"KLASSE I" — Your Assurance of Quality

Most Tulip bulbs sold world-wide receive the disease-free rating of "standard", the minimum rating acceptable for bulbs. Park sells only Tulip bulbs of classes one or two (KLASSE I or KLASSE II), which are far superior to the standard rating offered throughout the industry. This means our bulbs are grown in fields where extraordinary attention and effort ensure that they are free of viral diseases. In addition, all our Hyacinths receive the highest health ratings available.

This insistence on quality is part of Park's efforts to bring only the best in bulbs to you, our valued customers.

Tulip Douglas Baader (below)

Best in its color and class, this consistent winner of blue ribbons at Dutch flower shows offers a heavenly shade of pastel pink for your landscape. Great form and long, sturdy stems. A Darwin tulip; late-season bloomer.

Strawberry Pink Panda - New

One of the most unusual perennials introduced in many years — a Strawberry with pink flowers! Lovely blooms are produced continuously throughout the summer, with an especially heavy early summer show set off by bright, semi-evergreen leaves. When we trialed it last year, Pink Panda began blooming during a warm spell in mid-winter and bloomed on through the whole season, adding color and beauty to the garden. Gorgeous in containers, window boxes and hanging baskets, it also makes a stunning ground cover. Easy to grow in full sun or partial shade, very hardy and vigorous. The small, tasty fruit is an edible bonus on this versatile, free-blooming plant. 6-8 inches tall with a spreading habit. Space 12 inches apart. Zones 3-9.

Wild (Feral) Daffodil Naturalizing Mix - A New Park Exclusive

Introduced by early settlers, Daffodils are found naturalized all over the eastern U.S. In one such planting from over a hundred years ago, a Mrs. Calentine planted the ancestors of some of these feral, or wild, Daffodils in front of her home on New England Road in Bern Township, Ohio (see photo). Although Mrs. Calentine's house collapsed years ago, the Daffodils have spread to cover almost an acre, their golden blossoms and sweet scent welcoming each spring. We've use a small harvesting of these bulbs (since replaced!) to propagate so today's gardeners can continue this rich tradition. The mixture includes several different early flowering varieties including H. pseudonarcissus and N. telamonius plenus. Order your own planting of these old varieties today — they will enrich future generations as well as bring enjoyment to the present.

Charming Miniature and Species Daffodils

These petite Daffodils offer beauty in small exquisite packages. The varieties here include some of the earliest and latest blooming of the genus, often with intriguing and exotic form. All are extremely fragrant, and all will bloom and increase year after year, with little or no attention. We have found that many of them perform unusually well in the southernmost Daffodil Country, where their larger sisters may be shortlived. An inexpensive way to have a spectacular display! Zones 3-8, except where stated.

Jonquilla Baby Moon. Deliciously scented, like all the Jonquillas, this free-flowering, many-stemmed variety blooms late spring on 8-inch stems. Delightful planted with Tulips in the rock garden, under foundation shrubs, or on the edge of woodland.
